Description:

The Roman Empire used the early Christian Church to enslave the world. In this 21st century, the empire's descendants return to take the church back. A nun is committed to an insane asylum and bites off the ear of a renegade priest hiding from the Church. She is not what everyone thinks she is. The nun secretly seeks to infiltrate the Sequentia, women sacrifice their own lives and those of their children to hide crucial information from the Church. She is convinced that the women in the Sequentia are protecting a document personally dictated by Christ which contains His last instructions to mankind. If these women fail to keep the information safe, the modern world will be enslaved.

About Shawna Ryan

Shawna Ryan is an attorney who brings a singular, analytical intelligence and professionalism to her writing. Beginning her legal career in the Contracts Legal Department at Boeing in its heavy construction subsidiary, she became a trial attorney adept at compiling, assimilating, and translating for the court thousands of facts in multimillion-dollar construction law cases. Though devoted to her writing, she presently hears and analyzes construction claims and disputes for government agencies.
